* Burnished Pennies of 1945

New Zealand pennies dated 1945 were found, when issued in mint state, with two different toned metals.

The first and most common is the bright and normal toned penny. The other is a burnished or dark brown penny.

This occurred due to the fact that whilst being minted at the Royal Mint London around 480,000 burnished blanks originally intended for the striking of English pennies were used for the striking of N.Z. pennies.

The burnishing of English pennies was carried out by the authorities to discourage the hoarding of bright new pennies in Great Britain at the time.
